FBC LTD, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Louisiana Conservationist, Vol. 46: November/December 1994 We have only recently begun to recognize the tremendous value of Louisiana s coastal wetlands. These areas produce tremendous quantities of detritus (particles of decaying plant material) which provide the key nutri ents critically necessary to sustain our vast fisheries. In terms of organic material, wet lands are two to three times more productive than the most fertile agricultural land. These stunningly productive wetlands provide Louisiana with an irreplaceable diverse eco system of national significance. Coastal wetlands in Louisiana also produce much of the nation s fur harvest, 50 percent of the nation s wild alligator harvest and a winter home for more than 5 million of the nation s waterfowl. Additionally, these wet lands provide habitat for hundreds of differ ent species of mammals, birds, reptiles and amphibians, including several threatened and endangered species such the Bald Eagle and the Louisiana state bird, the Brown Pelican.
