

Online Education Comes of Age: Schools for the Future

By Melissa Layne

Westphalia Press. Paperback. Condition: New. 124 pages. Dimensions: 10.0in. x 7.0in. x 0.3in. Internet Learning Journal (ILJ) is a bi-annual, open access, double-blind peer-reviewed academic publication sponsored by The Policy Studies Organization (PSO) and American Public University System (APUS). Our title shows our focus and our ambition. Our multiple delivery platforms represent collective vision and models present day innovation. Our subject matter is the revolution that online learning has brought to the academy. Since the University of Bologna was founded in 1088, instruction was done face-to-face with the technologies of speaking and writing. The digital revolution has now offered an alternative to teaching, learning and scholarship. For the first time, we can look at classroom data, patterns of interaction and patterns of learning fixed in data points. The digital revolution threatens to change how students learn, teachers teach, education institutions manage data and how scholars disseminate this data. We hope to become a forum for the larger issues of data collection, assessment and online learning. We look forward to keeping the great conversation alive. This item ships from multiple locations. Your book may arrive from Roseburg,OR, La Vergne,TN. Paperback.

READ ONLINE
[1002.4 KB]

Reviews

This publication is very gripping and intriguing. It is among the most awesome book we have go through. You can expect to like how the author compose this book.

-- Dr. Malika Bechtelar II

This ebook might be worthy of a read, and superior to other. It usually does not charge an excessive amount of. Once you begin to read the book, it is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding.

-- Arch Upton