Excerpt: .Division of Kent and Conservative Whip, and Political Secretary to the Treasury in both Lord Salisbury s first and second ministry. It has been disposed of this year to Miss Boyd, who intends to keep it for a home in connection with her Orphanage of the Infant Saviour, at Kilburn. During the time that the Akers have been at Mailing Abbey, discoveries have been made of lids of coffins, with circles on the top, and a line running down the centre, crossed in two or three places with foliage: in all likelihood the resting-place of the Abbesses. The gateway chapel was renovated in the year 1858 by the Akers. It had passed through various vicissitudes of fortune: it would appear that it was at one time a tannery; then, in 1773, it was a meeting-house; then a carpenter s shop. Since All Saints Day, 1858, when the Akers family and their friends, together with the present worthy Vicar of West Mailing, saw their work of renovation completed by its being opened for public worship, continual prayer has been said here. It is about twenty-two feet long and thirteen broad, and there is an ante-chapel behind the screen about fifteen feet long. The walls are handsomely decorated. In the window are scrolls, with the initials of the various contributors and the day of their decease. As we here take leave of the abbey, we may mention that the ancient seal of the abbey was a...
