Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from The Nameless Hero: And Other Poems The Nameless Hero Sad, O Missouri, sad as tolling knell The tales of blood and death thy children tell. Beloved land, my heart with grief is torn O'er ruthless wrongs by thee so nobly borne. The demon War has blown his fiery gale, Blasted thy uplands, blighted every vale. Where stood thy busy hamlet wolves may roam, And ruins where once rose the happy home. Fair were thy plains, sweet Marion, where befell A deed that makes the pitying bosom swell. Fair are thy streets. Palmyra, where was done - That deed so foul and dark a fiend might shun. Unrazed by bounding shot or sputtering brand Erect thou stoodst o'er smouldering, fuming land. Though stilled thy flames, yet endless blazing fires Forever burn in breasts of sons and sires. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
