Date :2011-03-01 version 1 of the 20th century style of instrumental music has undergone dramatic changes. Early history of the recording to the contemporary audience's first impression is often less than ideal: the overall speed too fast. loose rhythmic freedom. string portamento ones. ensemble uniformity. accuracy of pitch and other technologies are generally much lower than today's standard and so on. On the other hand. relative to the late 20th century early 21st century the kind of people the usual precise. neat. smooth. calm. restrained contemporary performances. early recordings often can be a more pure approach to reflect the unfettered artistic imagination. rich The clear meaning. touching personal factors. 20th-century Western-style structure features instrumental and Causes - computer-based visual analysis of audio parameters of the 20th century. mainly through early recordings and the analysis and comparison between the modern recording. combined with the literature records . from both scientific and traditional style changes to clarify the core characteristics of this composition and its causes. and on this basis. the authenticity of the music and the future direction of development issues such as inference. Changes to the playing style of research focused mainly on time-related rate. rhythm and other structural features of the universal. to better highlight this with a Gaussian window of the organic continuity of the velocity curve smoothing algorithm. the intensity curve. playing worms and 101 deviation curve method of computer-aided visualization. The results show that the late 20th century to avoid the speed and intensity of playing in the natural association of the same time. a lot of flexibility with the structure of meaning was gradually control the...
