Excerpt from The Scope: November 1941 From a review of recent literature on the effect of vitamins. On the ocular diseases, vita min A is shown to be useful in the treatment of corneal lesions and in the correction of night blindness due to a deficiency of vitamin A. Vitamin B in its varied sub - divisions is of use in the treatment of the various toxic amblyopias due to alcohol and tobacco, and perhaps in cataract although this phase is still not too well explored as yet. Vitamin D results in a weakened cornea with ectasia or keratoconus; viosterol and calcium together have aided these conditions.
