Not illustrated. 1919 Excerpt: . . . registry department of such new address. This would simplify our registration. National laws should supersede all state and local laws where the general welfare is concerned--laws of paramount interest collectively--and such laws would then be uniform and easily understood. Woman Suffrage I thoroughly endorse woman suffrage throughout the nation, as it has a tendency to purify our governmental system and raise it to a higher plane, intellectually, morally and in efficiency, but I would advise women voters as a whole to devote a little more serious thought and study to the many important questions and problems of the day in which they are and should be vitally interested, and necessarily so, as, for instance, education of the children, child welfare, sanitation, health, protective insurance for the family, taxation, conditions of labor for their sex, and child labor, compensation therefor, hours of labor, etc. Our general system of politics, our officials that are in office or those seeking office--all of these and more vital questions can easily be assimilated by the right kind of reading, interesting conversation, study, etc. , in ones spare time, too often wasted in foolish and even harmful ways by many of the fair sex, and such education for better laws and better conditions will bring interest and dividends for the whole family and to all concerned, and make for better morals, happier, more contented families, and happier lives. I suggest that we raise our standard of amusements, entertainments, dramas and...
