Excerpt from Inquiry Into the Causes of Insanity: With Especial Reference to Prevention and Treatment The laws of heredity have been closely studied in the lower order of animals, and it is well known that the virtues and the vices of the parents are transmitted to the offspring. So in the human race good and bad qualities are transmitted. Vices of constitution tend to reproduce themselves in the children. All those factors which tend to lower the physical stamina of the individual, which tend to diminish the normal resisting power of the nervous system to shock and disease, all these factors are transmitted to the children. And it is especially those factors which tend to depress vitality, to disturb the healthy flow of healthy blood to different parts of the body, that are most apt to bring about in the descendants diseases of low vitality, such as scrofula and consumption, and also diseases damaging the normal and regular display of force in the nervous system, such as chorea, epilepsy, hysteria, and insanity.
