Excerpt from Report of the Bureau of Engineering of the Department of Public Works, City and County of San Francisco: Fiscal Years Ending June 30, 1921, and June 30, 1922 For years Mission Street was the only paved direct route from the heart of the City, connecting with the main peninsular highway of San Mateo County to the south. Due to the adjacent large business section, it soon became too congested to accommodate the increasing volume of rapid vehicular traffic. One of the first problems met by this office in its campaign for better streets was the development of main routes of travel paralleling Mission Street.
