Perry Township. 289. This township lies north and west of Toby township, east of Armstrong county from which it is separated by the Allegheny river, and south of the Clarion river which parts it from Richland township. A high ridge taking its course southeastwardly through the township from the mouth of the Clarion river merges with a similar divide coming northeastwardly from Monterey becomes the Clarion-Red Bank divide. 290. The Freeport group of coals, limestones and ores is caught in the summits along these dividing ridges, but its area is necessarily very circumscribed. The Kittanning group of coals occupies most of the land, but the area covered by the Clarion group is also of considerable size. The Ferriferous limestone presents many miles of outcrop line, but its overlying ore-bed is thin and is only valuable over a very limited area. It has not been mined to any very great extent. 291. The ore beds lying in the shales subjacent to the Homewood sandstone have been mined for use in Black Fox furnace but the workings were not extensive. This ore deposit occurs in pots or patches of good local development but it is not to be relied upon as a persistent bed. The same seams were also mined to some extent in Beaver township, and also in Butler county on Bear creek where they are now being re-opened for working by Major Mobley who has kindly furnished the...
