Merely no terms to spell out. We have read through and i also am confident that i will gonna read yet again again in the future. You will not sense monotony at anytime of your own time (that's what catalogs are for about should you question me).

Forgotten Books, 2018. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from The Drink Trade and State Purchase Prohibition of the retail sale of all intoxicating drinks is the policy advocated by practically all active temperance organisations in all parts of the world. Undoubtedly it is the simplest and most effective remedy where it can be enacted and enforced. Experience has taught that, as it can only be effectively enforced when local opinion and the local authorities are in its favour, the most prudent and practicable policy is to. Dress for the enactment of the power of Local Veto, and to rely upon that until it has been very widely exercised. That is the policy of the Temperance party in this country, and in my judgment it is sound and wise. But prohibition, even by local vote, can only be a remedy for intemperance when Parliament has been induced to give the people the power to veto the sale of drink and when the people, in their respective localities, use the power thus. Conferred upon them. At present neither of these conditions. Obtains except in Scotland, where Parliament has taken the first step. When Parliament has conferred the power on the: people of England and Wales, as it undoubtedly will one of these days, there will be, under present conditions, a lengthy time notice, and when that has expired it will be a long time before the veto power will be used in the greater part of the most populous and important areas.
