Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from A Story From Pullmantown As the steeples from the World s Columbian Exposition and the voices from the Congresses arose toward heaven, the spirits of the Pilgrim Fathers congregated above to behold a sight: From the ores of mountains only known to them through the red warriors tales, their children had taken silver and gold and glittering stones; from these and from night-black coal they had constructed monuments for their own daring and skill; from endless prairies ruled by sun and wind, known to them only by faint breezes whispering eastward, had their children brought the heavy wheat and golden maize and wreathed it amid buffalo horns around machines which had plowed and harvested those prairies. They had brought it by steam, and they had called for it through thin wires of metal stretching from one end of the country to the other. And words of fraternity and love, equality and brotherhood of man, rose from men and women. Woman had a temple all her own, with marble and paintings and flowers and silks. And from here, too, an incessant stream of words arose. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
