SOME WORK GOOD PEOPLE ARE DOING. NO honest man who can read and understand statistics will study the United States Census, or the Annual Reports of the Honorable Commissioner of Education, and deny that there is an appalling mass of illiteracy in the Southern States, both among the white people and the negroes. As to the illiteracy of the negroes, (who make the vast majority of untaught people in the South, ) something may be said in extenuation. As to illiteracy among the white people of the South, I do not know any excuse good enough to offer. / wish I did. In the United States Senate, December 15, 1880, the Hon. Joseph E. Brown, one of the senators from Georgia, delivered an able speech on the Bill to Establish an Educational Fund, etc. A few paragraphs I quote because they...
