Taylor Francis Ltd, United Kingdom, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .The financial crisis that started in 2007 is a concern for the world. Some countries are in depression and governments are desperately trying to find solutions. In the absence of thorough debate on the emotions of money, bitter disputes, hatred and moralizing can be misunderstood. New Perspectives on Emotions in Finance carefully considers emotions often left unacknowledged, in order to explain the socially useful versus de-civilising, destructive, nature of money. This book offers an understanding of money that includes the possible civilising sentiments. This interdisciplinary volume examines what is seemingly an uncontrollable, fragile world of finance and explains the panics of traders and immoral panics in banking, confidence of government and commercial decision makers, shame or cynicism of investors and asymmetries of impersonal trust between finance corporations and their many publics. Money is shown to rely on this abstract trust or faith , but such motivations are in crisis with angry conflicts over the power of disposition . Restraining influences - on uncivilised emotions and rule breaking - need democratic consensus, due to enduring national differences in economic sentiments even in ostensibly similar countries. Promising ideas for global reform are assessed from these cautionary interpretations. Instead of one correct vision, sociologists in this book argue that corporations and global dependencies are driven by fears and normless sentiments which foster betrayal. This book is not about individuals, but habitus and market crudities. Human nature or greed cannot describe banks, which do not feel because their motivations are not from personal psyches but organisational pressures, and are liable to switch under money s inevitable uncertainties. This more inclusive social science studies emotions as a crucial factor among others, to expand the informed public...
