

Microcredit and Community Organizations in a Wetland of Bangladesh

By Uddin, Mohammed Salim

Condition: New. Publisher/Verlag: LAP Lambert Academic Publishing | Role and Sustainability in Resource Management | Microcredit has been considered one of the most significant innovations in the field of development in the last thirty years. It has contributed positively to the natural resource management by forming social capital, creating alternate income and diversifying livelihoods of resource dependent rural people. In recent years, the notion of government as the only decision-making authority in natural resource management has been replaced by multi-scale, polycentric governance, which recognizes that a large number of stakeholders in different institutional settings contribute to overall management of resources. Improving the management and empowering local communities, community-based management has become a common strategy in the last two decades and community-based organizations are grassroot institutions that involve rural communities in co-management. This book provides a comprehensive synthesis of the role of microcredit in socio-economic development of a wetland resource dependent community and factors involved in sustainability of community-based organizations. It also offers evidence of social learning that evolved through microcredit and grassroot institutional interventions. | Format: Paperback | Language/Sprache: english | 136 pp.

READ ONLINE
[6.13 MB]

Reviews

This book is definitely worth acquiring. I have go through and so i am certain that i will likely to read through again again in the future. Its been printed in an exceptionally basic way in fact it is only after i finished reading this publication in which actually altered me, change the way in my opinion.

-- Andres Bashirian

Comprehensive guide for publication fanatics. This really is for all who statte there had not been a well worth reading through. I discovered this ebook from my dad and i encouraged this book to find out.

-- Lacy Goldner